

Conscience Lost ©

The ability to work for good and not evil is a lofty human endeavor. This requires, we are often told by truly religious authorities, a well-formed conscience. Secular authorities, while often claiming to be religious at heart, are easily capable of parsing good and evil into some preferred quicksand called common ground. Some, even claiming to be religious, are capable of truly barbaric evil acts that defy human understanding.

ISIS is proving capable of truly barbaric acts and they have everyone's attention. They are in the news and impossible to ignore. In good conscience, do they deserve to be more newsworthy than America's religious and secular authorities? Is ISIS the more barbaric? The answer is no!

Sadly, ISIS kills innocent children and this can never be justified. America today, finds any attempt to thwart the legal extermination of human lives in the womb, newsworthy. Truly conscience lost, as we approach 60,000,000 lives we refused to love. Truly conscience lost for not seeing the same outcome, if the supreme court had decided, only in the third trimester! To those children we refused life, liberty, and happiness, it would have made no difference! We have been proven barbaric indeed, as the "first trimester" has undeniably become meaningless!

Truly conscience lost with "church" and "state" essentially co-conspirators, allowing this immoral cancer to flourish in America. America lost its conscience and is infested with evil and those who are.

Frank Kendall Porter Jr. 25 May 2017

Standing indifferent or hostile to any effort to save the lives of our unborn displays a conscience of deadly quicksand. Denying life to our unborn in this world places us in absolute mortal danger of life denied in the next. Truly then and too late, conscience eternally lost. 30 May 2017