

Greetings students; I'm plain old Frank. Welcome back to campus 2014.

Regressing, when Ruth mentioned this event, inviting me to attend, and contribute, I began thinking of what I could possibly say that might mean anything to you. I settled on two words that I think dominated the thoughts of our country's founders. Maybe you would agree, we'll see.

Where to begin?

Let's begin with you.

Thanks for taking an interest in what might be said here today and taking the time to listen. Certainly there is nothing plain or old about you. Youthful, vibrant and full of life and this is good. They say every one has a twin. Look around you, perhaps he or she is here and you didn't notice. November, 2011; 645 Elvis impersonators arrived in Las Vegas setting a Guinness world record. Perhaps one or two really did look exactly like Elvis. Perhaps your soul-mate is here and you haven't discovered him or her just yet. Perhaps that critical member of your Nobel team is here today that results in a cure for cancer or diabetes or alzimers or aids or derives the theory of everything. Perhaps your Nobel team will achieved operational fusion power. Exciting thoughts!

But; chances are that your twin, your soul mate, your team mate may have been prevented from being here today. Was he or she one of the millions denied their inalienable rights? Sadly, and easier for us all to understand, for every three of you, someone is truly missing; who may have made the difference in all our lives. We will never know.

Perhaps your innate sense of humanity has been uneasy about their absence?

So who is plain old Frank?

I was born in the same year as Superman and Bugs Bunny having none of the powers of the former or the wisdom of the latter. I'm a U.S. citizen, writer, engineer, inventor and a friend of the very few public witnesses for life here today.

I was a husband. I lost my wife of almost 50 years in 2007. For Delores, a beautiful woman, a beautiful person, a cure for cancer would have been most welcome for me and my family. It would have been most welcome also for my sister Jean, who I lost to cancer in 2012.

I am a father, grand father and a great grand father. I have five sons, four daughters, twelve granddaughters, seven grandsons, a grandchild due next April, three great grandsons and five great granddaughters. I offer you an obvious truth.

“True love creates life, it never destroys it.”

Last but certainly not least, many, many years after my baptism I am still a Roman Catholic. My dad was determined that the Baltimore Catechism would be etched firmly into my being and he succeeded. My dad was a Baptist, my mother a Catholic. He never went to my church with me and I never went to his church with him. Certainly the seeds of religious conflict to deal with as I waded through life; but I'm certain he has been richly rewarded. After a life time of religious reflection, only Roman Catholicism continues to make perfect sense to me.

But; I'm not here to tell you what to believe. God always lead the true seeker to His truth. You're in God's loving hands.

So what were plain old Franks' two words?

If you thought of faith and freedom you guessed well.

The founders were extraordinary public witnesses to the world that success or failure of the New Republic depended on their faith in Almighty God. "In God We Trust" became the keystone of the new republic.

They also rejected tyranny in any form that would compromise the freedom of the citizens. Armed with a Judeo-Christian based Constitution the Republic grew, prospered and enjoyed continuous self improvement.

They understood the danger of a "state" religion and guarded against it but not about the importance of faith. "We the people" endowed with "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" were to be a religious people, a moral people who would sustain a moral republic.

Approximately 20 centuries ago the "state" religion of pagan Rome would suffer no opposition and used deadly violence against it. The centuries continued to record the effects that "state" religions had on their citizens. The founders knew history, knew it well.

For the un-vigilant, history always seems to repeat itself. America has its own de-facto pagan "state" religion but few recognize it. Its un-official birth, ironically, came through the death of others and it successfully attacked both faith and freedom head on.

Nine Supreme Court Judges were asked to eliminate laws protecting unborn Americans from deadly violence. Unfortunately the founders never anticipated the need to include protection for the unborn explicitly in the Constitution. Prior to 1973 fundamentally moral laws did protect the unborn and the abortionist faced prosecution but never the woman.

Seven Supreme Court Judges bought the argument of doctor and patient privacy versus the value of any first trimester third person consideration. The keystone, faith, Trust in God, morality; was successfully attacked and the freedom to be born was legally destroyed.

Once the sanctity of the womb was destroyed every thing else sacred was fair game. Morality came under continuous and full assault. One political party has fully embraced this evil and was recently rewarded by the citizens by placing their "unyielding" candidate in the White House.

He personifies the "State" religion of pagan political correctness which allows its members to declare that they are personally opposed to immoral activities but refuse to impose their beliefs on others. Undeclared pagans; but they are pagans none the less! Evil flourishes and they are successfully destroying the republic in the process.

Second and third trimester killings soon followed the first. Lost on the citizens during this serial killing of our unborn is the very real threat to the rest of us. The government refuses to defend their lives if they are deemed "inconvenient". The government could do the same to us as recent healthcare legislation now strongly suggests! Who is or becomes "inconvenient" will be determined by the "state".

Law which failed life in the womb will absolutely fail the rest of us.

Those who violate the right to birth of innocent life will have no compunction against violating the right to life of the rest of us. This is how tyranny operates, first against the defenseless and then against the rest of their enemies.

I have spent countless prayerful hours in front of Planned Parenthood over the years as a public witness for life. Hundreds of pro-lifers used to appear and now I observe “too few witnesses”. An appropriate title for my web site I thought, which stands as direct opposition. But; the pagans are winning and the citizens are oblivious to the final consequences. (Photos: 1993 versus today.) Where is everybody?

The overwhelming majority of people who pass by Planned Parenthood are indifferent to the on-going deadly violence against innocent human life. Some are openly hostile to pro-lifers. Very few are supportive. Most that enter are indifferent to the child they created and are responsible for. Denied its family, the child dies!

Republicans claim that they seek to defund Planned Parenthood. Democrats are adamant in its support. It is obvious that neither will ever restore legal protection to our unborn so that is not going to happen!

The very few remaining pro-lifers are saving a few lives! Forty nine (49) souls are alive (saved) so far this year (2014) due to their direct sidewalk counseling activities! When the pro-lifers are finally silenced even those few will be lost as well. That is going to happen! (Evil never tolerates dissent, for long.)

Your greatest challenge will be to restore morality to the republic. Nothing else will save it. Is that going to happen?

May you always be filled with high ideals, lofty thoughts and God’s grace!

You are all probably familiar with the phrase “Love is never having to say you’re sorry”. Is it true or false? Think about your answer, mine follows shortly.

A recent request was made by a B.U. student; which I answered earlier. At the risk of repeating a few words here and there it follows.

Dear Alison;

Your recent request for vocalizing my reflections, concerning the facility that I am often in front of, namely Planned Parenthood, was not answered. Impromptu, I felt, may have been inadequate or lacking in importance as “off the cuff” remarks may sometimes be. On the other hand perhaps the most salient immediately would have risen to the forefront and would have been satisfactory for your purposes.

Belatedly therefore, attempting restitution, my thoughts. Beginning in the late 1970’s I became occasionally present outside Planned Parenthood and as the years passed my presence increased to the current two days a week. The significance or better the reality of what I have come to understand is that America’s citizens have rejected the two principals upon which it was founded. These two principals are integral, primary manifestations of “Church” and “State” and without them the nation is perishing! They are respectively; “Trust in God” and “Freedom” the loftiest tenets any nation could possibly be blessed with. The first simply stated by our founders was the belief that God was the source of their strength and resolve without which all would come to naught. The Judeo-Christian ethic was etched into the fabric of America and served it well correcting faults as the nation matured. The second firmly stated by our founders constituted; “life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness”. The first freedom, the natural God-given freedom, was understood with a profound clarity, to be a person’s birth! Without it freedom was meaningless and laws were enacted by a noble nation to protect the most defenseless.

The two principals were successfully attacked and defeated in 1973. What was unlawful, rare and confined to “back alleys” became suddenly lawful! The “State” declared that the freedom to be born was no longer a noble cause and the “Church” had for all intents and purposes become lethargic in defense of its primary mission! The intervening years are marked with the ascendance of “political correctness” which has had the effect of uniting “Church” and “State” resulting in the staggering loss of innocent human life. Literally, one seventh of our population has been violently destroyed with our own hands! A nation responsible for such carnage is worse than Old Testament pagans who sacrificed their children to false gods and were summarily obliterated by Almighty God. The culmination of our nation’s descent toward oblivion was marked with the election of a leader who is the epitome of pagan purpose. He has stated his “unyielding” support for Planned Parenthood and what they do. What they do! Their primary function is deadly violence against innocent unique unborn American souls; denying them their life, their liberty and their pursuit of happiness!

A “pro-choice” nation by law; is a nation that no longer “Trusts in God”! What can one conclude about the “State” protected Planned Parenthood and similar facilities anywhere in America? Citizens trust in the “State” that all is well and that destroying innocent life is the new nobility and is no danger to them. Citizens’ trust in the “State” that those who oppose the new nobility are the real danger to the nation. Citizens trust that the “State” will continue to suppress the “Church”! Citizens trust that the “State” would never get in the way of their own freedom! However, abortionists with the full protection of the “State” presently hold the license to do just that with our Unborn! The “State” is interested in power, not the citizens!

An ignoble nation no longer trusting in God is a nation no longer than God allows!

“Love is never having to say you’re sorry.”

Is true!

There is no record in scriptures of Our Lord Jesus ever saying He was sorry! He loved perfectly!

We on the other hand, with our many faults, often fail and need to say we are sorry.
