

Is anyone surprised?

National and international unrest and intrigue dominate the news. Evil and those who are, relentless, in their quest to dominate nationally and internationally. Nationally, the election of President Trump brought two years of remarkable improvement, only due to control of the House, Senate and White House. That improvement was always denigrated by the minority party, the party which openly denied President Trump his election, and sought to obstruct at every opportunity the majority party proposals. Since the recent mid-term election, the citizens have sensed that the pending loss of the House by the majority party, will have a significant impact on any further improvements. The sense of the citizens, of the next two years, is obvious in the financial uncertainty, now in the stock market. Two years of unprecedented growth has been shattered since the mid term election, with significant losses. This is not a result of any decisions of President Trump but the obvious hatred of him by the incoming new majority in the House. House and Senate divided will accomplish nothing to solve our national divisions, only exacerbate them!

Is anyone surprised?

Internationally, powerful wealthy individuals are determined to have direct control of events that impact the lives of many, unable to oppose them. Religious fanatics are still determined to dominate the world and are the only ones whose birth rate ensures that one day they will. The infidels have adopted abortion as their own solution to life in the world! An organization whose proposed purpose alleges unity and peace among nations, has accomplished absolutely nothing that would ensure such an outcome, nations universally agreed against a common good. National and international unrest and intrigue will continue to dominate the news and not with any improvement!

Is anyone surprised?

History repeats itself, as often said, as endless warfare among nations is humanity's tragic story. The story is prophesized to end with a final battle which one could rightly prophesize today, is only a step away. All the major players are arranged, the forces of good and evil can be identified, it is only a question of when. It is sure to happen. The Lord's return, to win this final battle, is promised. Those who seek His return will be prepared.

But, many will be surprised!

IMHO Frank K. Porter Jr. 23 December 2018