

Inconvenient

Introduced in 1973, the concept of a personal but evil “convenience” breeched the sanctity of the womb and several generations (millions) of Unborn Americans have been mercilessly sacrificed to that concept. Those who survived this carnage during this period have not missed the message their “elders’ have conveyed to them. There is no longer a morality in America that will protect unborn innocent human life from being destroyed if it is deemed “inconvenient”. How easy to extend the concept of “inconvenience” to their elders as Glenn Beck has pointed out. I am not surprised, is anyone else who has really thought about it?

Politicians have embraced the concept for enormous political gain while claiming that they are “personally” opposed to the concept. This hypocrisy is also not lost on the first survivors. These same politicians have the powerful support of their “church” provided by its silence and refusal to publicly reject its defiant members. So, for our youth it is demonstrated by ‘church” and “state’ that morality has no absolutes, only relativity to one’s own personal ambitions and conduct within the current civil law.

Supporting politicians, willing to legislate morality into total remission and eliminate grandma in the process is fine them with. Destroy innocent life at its earliest and most helpless stage will soon be accompanied by its destruction at its latest, and equally helpless stage. The surviving strong believes they will survive yet they too will have succumbed to their elders’ fate. The nation of serial killers will be joined by the first survivors. Absent all sense and structure of morality, absolutely no one will survive.

We will all become inconvenient!

Frank K. Porter Jr.